Research Help Zone—this for some people is the most valuable part of our program. This provides an opportunity for you to meet one-on-one or in small groups with an expert to answer questions and help you with your research. Should any expert have more than two people interested in seeing them in a single session they may limit the time for each inquirer to 10-15 minutes. An expert is free to schedule a follow-up session if they wish at a convenient time. These will generally be one-on-one with an expert, but if more than one person is interested in the same thing (e.g. a genealogy program or online database) they can be with a small group. Here is a list of experts available in the areas they can advise on. This list may be incomplete for some speakers at this stage.
